Organization

The Central Avenue Special Improvement District Management Corporation is a small not-for-profit organization founded in 1992 by commercial property and business owners to manage the needs of the geographic area known as the Central Avenue Special Improvement District. As the first Improvement District in Jersey City, CASID functions as a public/ private partnership between City officials and private stakeholders to supplement, not substitute, government services. Such services include administration, marketing, government and public affairs, and managing public space. The CASID has nearly 450 members within the organization and is governed by a nine (9) member board.

Mission

The CASID was established to improve and preserve the traditional main street community in the “heart” of the Jersey City Heights (Central Avenue between Manhattan Avenue and North Street). Its mission is to make the district a center for shopping, dining, working and living. It works to engage stakeholders, drive collective decision making, and supplement services to the district.

Job Summary:

The Executive Director reports directly to CASID Board of Trustees and is charged with implementing the goals, policies, and collective decisions made by the organization. The Executive Director is responsible for the overall administration, financial management, and day-to-day activities of the CASID as outlined below.
